

Notiziario/News

MEDICINA NEI SECOLI HAS A NEW WEBSITE!

Please contact us, submit articles, subscribe and follow our activities at

www.medicinaneisecoli.it

Submissions of articles devoted to any aspect of the History of Medicine and allied sciences and Bioethics are welcome!

The articles, after peer-revision, will be published in our new 'Varia' section.

Short contributions and comments will also be evaluated for publication

International Conference. Neuroscience and Law: Implications and Perspectives

5th-7th October 2017, Parma, Italy, University of Parma

Conference Scientific Coordinators: Prof. Antonio D'Aloia, Prof.
Carlo Casonato, and Prof. Roberto Bin

In recent times, the field of neuroscience has been known for its' extraordinary developments, initiating several motives for discussion within the legal environment.

This Conference focuses on studying the various interactions between neuroscience and the world of law, trying to understand how neuroscientific discoveries could affect some fundamental legal categories and how laws should be implemented in the face of these innovations. The analysis is characterized by a particular thematic complexity; for this reason, the Conference will be mainly divided into three parts: PANEL 1 - Neuroscience and Law: general topics; PANEL 2 - Neuroscience and health protection and PANEL 3 - Neuroscience in the Courtroom.

13th-14th October 2017, Baltimore, USA, Atlantic Seminar for the History of Medicine.

The Johns Hopkins University Institute for the History of Medicine is pleased to host the 15th Joint Atlantic Seminar for the History of Medicine, October 13-14, 2017 in Baltimore.

JASM is convened annually for the presentation of research by young scholars working on the history of medicine and public health. The meeting was founded in 2002 to foster a collegial intellectual community that provides a forum for sharing and critiquing graduate research. We welcome student presentations on any topic and time period and especially hope to receive submissions that speak to this year's theme, "Truth, Power, and Objectivity in the History of Medicine."

We encourage submissions from a wide range of scholarly disciplines and are eager to hear new voices in the history of medicine and allied fields.

Registration for the conference is free and will open in September 2017. If you have any questions, please be in touch via email at jashistofmed@gmail.com.

October, 19th-22th 2017, Kansas City, MO, USA, ASBH American Society for Bioethics and Humanities 19th Annual Meeting

The American Society of Bioethics and Humanities (ASBH) Annual Meeting is designed for physicians, nurses, attorneys, historians, philosophers, professors of literature and the humanities, members of the clergy, social workers, and others engaged in endeavors related to clinical and academic bioethics and the health-related humanities. The ASBH Annual Meeting is an arena for interdisciplinary exchange among professionals in the fields of bioethics and the medical humanities. The conference will be held on October 19-22 in Sheraton Kansas City Hotel at Crown Center.

November 30th - December 2nd, 2017, Vienna, Austria, The 25th World Congress on Controversies in Obstetrics, Gynecology & Infertility (COGI).

The aims of the World Congress on Controversies in Obstetrics, Gynecology & Infertility are

- To promote excellence in the field of Gynecology & Infertility;
- To bring to light through debates and discussions the current controversial issues in the field, and to reach consensus on them. This will be done using “Evidence Based Medicine” (EBM), and when sound evidence is lacking, through expert opinion.
- To bridge gaps between expansion of basic science and information and their consolidation into clinical practice;
- To reach tangible agreements and practical consensus on the most current and controversial issues
- in the field;
- To allow ample time for speakers and audience interaction, and to encourage discussion of new ideas with the principal elements derived from EBM and expert opinions
- To be the forum where general practitioners (GPs) can be updated at the highest level in all sub-disciplines of the profession;
- To assist GPs in the understanding of the pressing clinical topics, technological advances, ethical and public health issues, standards of treatment, and medical solutions in the process of being developed.

March 22th-25th, 2018, U.S. Army Medical Department Center and School in San Antonio, Texas, Conference on the Medical History of World War I

Over 22-25 March 2018, the Army Medical Department Center of History and Heritage and the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences will be co-sponsoring a conference on the medical history of WWI. It will be hosted at the U.S. Army Medical Department Center and School in San Antonio, Texas.

Presentations on all facets of medicine and healthcare related to the war are welcome, to include: historical understandings of military medicine as practiced by all participants and in all geographic regions; consideration of the repercussions of the war on the practice of medicine; medicine in various campaigns; effects on the home fronts; postwar medical issues; mental health issues; the pandemic influenza; and related topics.

Call for Papers: Medical History of World War I

San Antonio, Texas, US

Proposals Deadline: 10 November 2017

A new blog about teaching history of medicine at <https://teachhistmed.com/>

Cited from the blog: “We envision this blog as a site where historians of medicine can share specific assignments and strategies that have worked for them in the classroom.[...] This blog will be a place for short, highly focused essays – small “doses” – with concrete recommendations on pedagogical practices.”

Informations and contributions to: teachhistmed@gmail.com.. Contributions are possible sending

- a brief bio or CV
- one or two paragraphs describing your teaching experience
- a 250-word proposal for a blog post